Rabah Lahmar, Martin Held, Luca Montanarella
People Matter: Food Security and Soils

Contents

Preface 7

Alain Ruellan, Montpellier
Introduction

People Matter — Food Security and Soils 9 Martin Held, Tutzing; Rabah Lahmar, Montpellier; and Luca Montanarella, Ispra

Part I: Food Security — Starting Point, Approach and Consequences
Potential and Constraints of Soils for Increased Agricultural Production: How Much Spare Land? Anthony Young, Norwich and Freddy 0. Naechtergaele, Rome
Soil Potential and Constraints for Increased Agricultural Production in the Low Yield Areas of West Africa
Sjef Kauffman and Alfred Hartemink, Wageningen

How Many People to be Fed on Planet Earth? What Population Projections Tell Us 44 Winfried von Urff Freising-Weihenstephan

Changes in Nutrition — Potentials for Food Security 51 Friederike Bellin-Sesay, Giessen

Part II: Sustainable Food Security — Alternatives for Agriculture
Long-term Food Security of a Growing World — Productivity Must Increase 59 Klaus Lampe, Frankfurt

The United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification (UNCCD): A Multilateral Environmental Agreement that Can Put Food on the Table 65 Jan Sheltinga, Bonn

Conventional Agriculture and the Use of Transgenic Crops 70 Beatrix Tappeser, Freiburg

Possibilities to Increase Productivity of Conventional Farming 78 Jaromir Kubat, Prague

Organic Farming and Global Food Security — Strategy or Utopia? 92 Gerald Herrmann, Graefelfing

Organic Agriculture — Potentials and Constraints Mamadou Khouma and Aminata Niane Badiane, Dakar

Organic Farming as a Social Movement:
Rethinking Sustainable Agriculture in Developing Countries Stephan Rist, Berne
Globalisation, Crisis and Conditions for Sustainable Development in Smallholder Farming Marcel Mazoyer, Paris
Assuring Food Security by Enhancing Sustainable Soil Management — GTZ Strategies to Support Farm Households Kurt G. Steiner, Eschborn

Part III: Perspectives for Sustained Food Security
Food Security and Soils: Instruments and Frameworks
Ian Hannam, Sydney
Sustainable Development as a Guiding Principle — Concluding Comments and Perspectives on Food Security
Luca Montanarella, Ispra; Rabah Lahmar, Montpellier and Martin Held, Tutzing